Bethel selectman hire MMA to help find new manager

By CHRISTY CROSS

The Bethel Selectmen last Wednesday began charting their course for hiring a new town manager to fill the position being vacated by Rodney Lynch.

Lynch's resignation, accepted by the selectmen Aug. 20, will become effective Nov. 4.

The selectmen, in an unannounced meeting last Wednesday, agreed to pay $2,500 to the Maine Municipal Association to help them advertise for the candidates for the job.

MMA Director of Personnel Services and Labor Relations, Michael C. Wing told the selectmen he will provide them with an interview format, will provide a background check on a couple of the candidates, and will help them negotiate and write up a "memo of understanding" for the position.

The selectmen agreed to advertise in the Maine Sunday Telegram and the Bangor Daily News and in the Sept. 10 issue of City Managers Newsletter. In addition to the $2,500 fee paid to MMA for up to five meetings with the selectmen, the town will pay for the advertisements.

The selectmen agreed to decide at a later meeting whether to pay travel expenses for candidates coming to Bethel for interviews.

At this initial meeting, Wing questioned the selectmen to determine the type of candidate desired.

Selectman Henry Dombkowski said the candidate should have grant writing and project administration ability.

Arlan Jodrey, chairman of the board of selectmen, said, "I think we have seen a need for a person that can relate to the public works side of it."

Also, referring to the vacant GAMM II building, Jodrey said, "We have some industrial properties that we'd like to have the manager find a customer for."

"You mentioned earlier that the manager should be outgoing," Wing said.

"But we don't want a social butterfly," Jodrey said.

Selectman Peter Haines said, "I think we ought to talk about not making it a requirement to live in the Town of Bethel."

Haines said he thought a manager could have a more private social or personal life if he or she lived out of town.

Wing said, "Sometimes it gets down to a more personal question: Can the town manager afford to buy a house in the town?"

He cited managers in York County who had not been able to find housing they could afford in the towns they managed.

"Well, we're York County-north," Jodrey said. Still he said he thought it

School directors consider easing extra-curricular eligibility policy

By CHRISTY CROSS

A proposed change in the SAD #44 extra-curricular eligibility policy, if approved, is intended to make it easier for students to adjust to the district's new increased minimum passing grade of 70.

The SAD #44 Board of Directors approved the proposed policy change on first reading at its Monday night meeting.

If approved on second reading, students who receive a failing grade (below 70) in any course will receive an extra-curricular warning. The student then will have two weeks to bring the grade up to passing before being placed on extra-curricular suspension.

Under the existing policy, a student is placed on extra-curricular probation immediately and given two weeks to bring the grade up before suspension. While on probation the student is allowed to practice but is not allowed to participate in competitions.

Board member and policy committee member Raymond Harrington of Greenwood explained the proposed change, which the policy committee recommends.

Before voting on the change, board member Nancy Dewing of Greenwood said, "I agreed to this as an interim situation... It is my hope that we would reconsider this down the road and bring it up to our more stringent standards."

Board Chairman Margaret Hand of Woodstock asked if there was any way to ensure that, after one week, the teacher would be making an effort to get the student to bring the grade up.

"When a student is making no effort, two weeks is a long time," Hand said.

Supt. Dewaine Craig said, "The student has to do some of this. I guess I have no doubt that the coach is going to be checking on this."

Board member Cheryl Eliot of Bethel said, "Two weeks is a long time, but I guess I feel comfortable with it ... this just gives us that little edge for those students who just might not make (the new passing grade)."

Eliot suggested, however, that the board give the change a year and then reconsider it.

Telstar High School Principal Ted Davis said sometimes a student finds out about a failing grade on a Friday, does the work suggested by the teacher to bring the grade up over the weekend, only to find on Monday that, in addition, the teacher requires the student to make the grade on a test

Andover selectman sechedule election to replace Maselli

By BARBARA ADAMS

The Andover selectmen have scheduled a town election for Tuesday, Sept. 25 to elect a replacement for Selectman William Maselli, who resigned earlier this month.

Despite a request by Board Chairman Fred Emerson that he remain on the board, Maselli said his immediate resignation stands due to the commitments of his solo law practice.

Maselli said he appreciated the offer, but declined to remain.

Application papers for the seat vacated by Maselli must be filed at the Town Office no later than Sept. 11 for a position on the ballot.

Selectman Brian Mills said, "It is not fair to the townspeople to operate with a two man Board."

Chairman Emerson agreed, saying, "If somebody gets sick or doesn't show up we don't do any business."

In other business at the Aug. 21 selectmen's meeting, Assessor Sandy Hebert of Dixfield, who is doing the town evaluation, notified the Board through Town Administrative Assistant Rebecca Schachter, that two lots sold as part of a subdivision belonging to Francis Bolduc are still in tree growth.

According to Hebert, Bolduc had 145 acres in tree growth, and after the sale, has 125 acres and two camps on

Gould boiler 'blow-downs' accepted for sewer hookup

By CHRISTY CROSS

When the 1990-91 heating season begins, Gould Academy will begin draining the "blow-down" water from its boilers into the town of Bethel's sewer lines.

Bethel selectmen voted to issue the sewer line connection permit to Gould at their Aug. 20 meeting.

The connection permit is only the second to be issued in Bethel since the Department of Environmental Protection instituted a sewer connection moratorium in Bethel in August of 1988, according to Town Manager Rodney Lynch.

The DEP instituted the moratorium because excess inflow and infiltration into the town's wastewater treatment plant caused discharge of untreated wastewater into the Androscoggin River. The moratorium ended last May when the town signed a consent agreement with the DEP.

Part of the consent agreement stipulates that the town document removal of five gallons of inflow or infiltration for every new gallon of discharge permitted.

The school, which has been draining its boiler water into Mill Brook and Sanding Brook, requested the sewer line connection at the urging of the DEP, according to Gould's Maynard Morgan.

In making the request, Gould representatives documented that conservation measures and removing sump pump connections from the sewer lines had removed 10,353 gallons per day from the system.

Since the boiler connection is expected to average 200 gallons per day, Gould by its own efforts has exceeded the 5:1 gallon requirement ten times, according to a wastewater volume modification report at the town office.

To achieve the water use reduction, Gould replaced 67 shower heads with average flows of 3.27-8.04 gallons per minute with new heads rated at a maximum flow of 2.75 gallons per minute, for a savings of 3,047 gallons per day.

In addition, the school has installed Retro Water Saver Kits in 60 toilets in its dormitories, faculty apartments and restrooms. At a one gallon per flush savings, five uses per toilet per day would result in a savings of 300 gallons per day.

Andover Planning Board votes to approve disputed permits

By BARBARA ADAMS

The Andover Planning Board met on Aug. 20 and approved two building permit applications which had been in dispute.

Planning board members present at the meeting were Chairman Dave Greig, Ed Witt and alternate member Everett Mayberry who sat in for Ed Kreiton.

The original permit sought by Adelard "Ducky" Cayer was allowed to stand after board members reviewed shoreland zoning ordinances and local and state regulations. Members agreed with Cayer that his property was not in a flood plain.

Witt said the local board members had no conflict with the shoreland zoning ordinances in Cayer's case.

However, he said, "The town needs to be more active in getting things from the state. In this day and age the town could be liable if we issued a permit and there was flooding. We have learned something from this case."

Ted White said that any such liability probably wouldn't stand up in court if the board had worked in good faith and been as thorough as they had in the Cayer case. He said that Cayer also "had done everything he could do" in trying to comply with regulations.

Witt suggested that the Andover selectmen be urged to allow code enforcement officer Kenny Hill to work in excess of 10 hours a week in the future in order to become familiar with both town and state regulations.

As a basis for their vote to let Cayer's permit stand as originally approved, the board cited state regulations which allow them to determine boundaries in special flood hazard areas. According to shorelands ordinances, when definitive information is lacking, as in Cayer's case, the board may make a decision on a case-to-case basis.

The site for Cayer's house will be on the highest of three plateaus, and board members agreed that the potential of flooding was practically nil.

Cayer site had been soil tested by state licensed Darrell Brown, who found no evidence of any prior flooding, and this was also a determining factor in the board's decision.

Cayer will build a one story house measuring 30x40 feet near the Ellis River.

After much discussion, the board also approved one of two applications they had received from Mike Fleury of Poland to erect a building in South Arm. One of his applications described the building as a camp, and the other, as a shed. The board had requested a design plan for a sub-surface

Planners set Sept. 6 for Bethel Park Apartments public hearing

By CHRISTY CROSS

The Bethel Planning Board last Wednesday night found the site plan review application for Bethel Park Apartments "substantially complete" and set the public hearing on the proposed 48-unit affordable housing project for Sept. 6.

A group of 15-20 abutters and neighbors of the project site were given 15 minutes at the meeting to question planning board members and the project developer, Gleichman & Co. of Portland.

Carolyn Nygren, an attorney who lives in Massachusetts and who owns property in Bethel, read a list of six "unresolved issues" she had prepared for the planning board.

Nygren's list included concern about the wetlands in the project area; questions about permitting the project to connect into the town's sewer system; about the tenancy requirements; about real estate tax assessment; about the project's relationship to the town $579,960 Community Development Block Grant award; and about the Farmer's Home Administration's environmental impact review of the project. (See complete list on page 2)

The town plans to use CDBG money, plus $330,000 in a loan/grant combination from FmHA, to complete Phase I of a sewer and storm drain and water line upgrade project in the village area. Without the infrastructure work, the cost of the housing project at the

Bring back the trains

The prosposed widening of the Maine turnpike between York and South Portland is not the answer to the traffic bottleneck in southern Maine. What it is is a short-sighted, Band-Aid solution to a state-wide transportation problem.

One could speculate that it evolved as a result of lobbying by the trucking industry, by the oil industry, by the powers-that-be in the greater Portland area—because that's exactly the what and the who that will benefit from the project.

Is the Bethel area really going to benefit from the widening? No. Even with the improvement projects on Route 26, which were needed—turnpike widening or no turnpike widening—the area north of the Gray interchange will see little difference in traffic.

Maine is a state stuck like a thumb on the northeast corner of the country. Bordered by Canada to its north, by mountains to its west and by the Atlantic Ocean to its east, the state connects with the rest of the U.S. at Kittery.

Greater Portland and points south to Kittery are greater, economically, only because of their proximity to the rest of the country. Northern Maine, Downeast Maine, the Western Mountains remain country cousins to prosperity.

Restored and enhanced train service could change that.

Imagine, in the Western Mountains alone, restoration of three-times daily train service from—and to—Portland. Imagine skiers boarding a train Friday afternoon in Massachusetts and arriving in Bethel for a weekend. Imagine support services—buses, car rentals, taxis.

Imagine a destination summer area for families—and the attendant recreation and service opportunities, developed not only for American tourists but for international tourists, arriving by train. Imagine a weeklong vacation package that combines our mountain area recreation opportunities—canoeing, hiking, swimming—with a two-day gala via train to Montreal...

Imagine being able to commute by train from West Paris or Greenwood to the greater Portland area to work...

A reorientation is in order. The oil embargo in the Persian Gulf is a reminder of the lesson we neglected to heed in the 1970's: That gas guzzling has to cease.

We are being presented with an opportunity, again, to learn the lesson. It will take time and money to re-establish the rails—but will it take any more money than is already being spent to subsidize highway transportation?

It will take a change in traveling habits of the American people—but in the face of escalating gasoline prices, habits can change.

It will take a vision, and a plan. And that is what we ought to be doing. All aboar-r-r-d! -CCC

Keep public's business before the public

The Bethel selectmen appeared shaken at the news last week of Town Manager Rodney Lynch's resignation. So shaken that, Maine law apparently to the contrary, they accepted Lynch's resignation while still in executive session. So shaken that, two days later, again apparently contrary to Maine law, the selectmen met without public notice and without notifying the press.

The law reads: "No ordinances, orders, rules, resolutions, regulations, contracts, appointments or other official actions shall be finally approved at executive sessions."

The law also reads: "Public notice shall be given for all public proceedings . . . if these proceedings are a meeting of a body or agency consisting of 3 or more persons. This notice shall be given in ample time to allow public attendance and shall be disseminated in a manner reasonably calculated to notify the general public. . . In the event of an emergency meeting, local representatives of the media shall be notified of the meeting..."

We genuinely believe that in these two instances the selectmen are guilty under the intent of the law, of nothing more than oversight. But to allow these oversights to go unchecked would be a failure of the role of the press.

We urge the Bethel selectmen, as well as all other members of the area's various municipal boards who so generously serve the public, to remember to keep the public's business before the public. It is the law. -CCC

Clarification: Maine Publicity Bureau

On the editorial page, under the general 'Opinions' heading in the Aug. 8 edition of the Citizen, we ran a press release prepared by John W. James IV, of Maine Vacation Travel Service in Brunswick.

The press release, headlined: "A.G.'s office to rescind state's July 1 contract with Maine Publicity Bureau," ran as written by James. However, we mistakenly omitted James' name and his affiliation.

Jim Thompson, executive director of the Maine Publicity Bureau called last week to complain about the headline, as well as some of the information contained in the release.

Specifically, he said, "It's wrong in that the A.G. made no such ruling; that we continue to deliver tourist information; and that I do not have a conflict of interest."

Thompson declined an invitation to write a rebuttal to the release.

Ronald Lord, purchasing agent for the Maine State Bureau of Purchases, which issues the contract for providing tourist information, said in a phone call that he, not the Attorney General's office, had decided to re-issue a request for proposals for providing tourist information.

Lord said he asked the assistant attorney general assigned to his office for advice on his decision and, though the assistant attorney general supported the decision, it was not an official A.G.'s ruling.

The headline we ran, therefore, was inaccurate. We apologize.

From the Bethel planning board file on Bethel Park Apartments projects

Rodney Lynch to Gleichman & Co.

John Morris
Architect/Planner
Re: Bethel Park Apartments
Dear John:

The purpose of this letter is to serve as a follow-up to our Friday, Aug. 3 meeting on the Bethel Park Apartments Project. At that meeting I posed a number of questions. The following is a listing of the responses to these questions:

Question 1: Status of letter from Maine Historical Preservation Commission on project review and approval?

Answer: The letter from the Historical Preservation Commission is being held up pending their making a determination on the impact of the drainage upon the Broad Street Historical District. The information on drainage has been provided to them.

Question 2: Has the DEP determined that Sanding Brook is a stream under State law?

Answer: Most likely this is a stream. A study done by the Soil Conservation Commission in 1972 stated that Sanding Brook functions as an important part of the storm drainage system of the Community.

Question 3: Is the project area within a designated wetland area?

Answer: Planning Assistant Rockie Graham contacted the DEP and they stated in order for a wetland to come under the Natural Resource Protection Act as a "Freshwater Wetlands" it must be 10 acres or more. The site is 8.2 acres.

Question 4: What needs to be done in order to redesignate Sanding Brook as an official part of the Town's drainage system and what is the procedure that is involved in making this change-over?

Answer: Town must request determination from DEP. Preliminary discussions with yourself indicate that the Town could possibly receive a drainage easement to maintain Sanding Brook as a part of the Town's drainage system and the developer may clean out the stream channel during construction.

Question 5: Required distance basins to Sanding Brook?

Answer: Twenty-five feet setback.

Question 6: Explanation of effect of project's increased water volume added to Sanding Brook. Also discussion of A.E. Hodsdon revised flow analysis study of Sanding Brook?

Answer: The developer will be prepared to answer the question concerning the impact of the increased water volume added to Sanding Brook. Technical Services, Inc. will contact A.E. Hodsdon for the purpose of coordinating Al Hodsdon's flow analysis. Al Hodsdon will be preparing a letter for the Town of Bethel on the impact of the water flow upon the Sanding Brook storm drain which runs through the village. A.E. Hodsdon feels the flow data generated by T.S.I. may be too conservative.

Question 7: Review of traffic study and elimination of parking on Broad Street to improve sight distance and impact of NTL traffic on Mason Street?

Answer: Except for when NTL uses Crescent Park School in the summer, pedestrian traffic on Mason Street is negligible. Concerning the elimination of parking on Broad Street in order to improve the sight distance, it is not critical at this stage.

Question 8: Approval of Town and Water District for sewers and water service.

Answer: The Selectmen approved the sewer plans for the development at their Aug. 6 meeting. The Selectmen also approved sewer connection, provided five gallons of storm water is removed for every one new gallon of sewage prior to the connection of the project into the sewer system. The developers will still need to get connection approval from the Water District.

Question 9: Impact of students on school system and where will the students and project tenants come from?

Answer: Gleichman & Co. will be prepared to answer this question at the public hearing.

Question 10: Has the Klein letter been adequately and sufficiently answered?

Answer: The content of his letter will be addressed by the Developer, John Morris, and T.S.I. Billy Stowell should also be prepared to address the contents of his letter.

Question 11: Provide list for Planning Board and interested parties of recently completed Gleichman projects?

Answer: The developer will provide this list.

Question 12: Can the developer clear Sanding Brook drainage way in order to improve flow?

Answer: The developers have indicated that they will clear the stream or drainage way in order to improve the flow through the area. This may possibly trigger a DEP permit.

Question 13: Has developer been in contact with A.E. Hodsdon concerning proper matching of Town's sewer and storm drain and water main plans with that of the developer?

Answer: Yes, however, developer should follow through to ensure that this has been done. T.S.I. has been requested that this be done.

Question 14: Who will manage the project and how will tenants be screened?

Answer: The developer will be prepared to answer this question at the public hearing.

Question 15: Does DEP need to approve this project?

Answer: The project does not meet the threshold requirements for a DEP Site Location of Development permit.

For your information I am enclosing a copy of the report prepared by the SCS. This may strengthen the argument for the need to officially include Sanding Brook in the Town's storm water drainage system.

Rodney C. Lynch
Town Manager

Carolyn Nygren to Planning Board

This list is meant to supplement the list of unresolved issues included in Rockie Graham's memo to the Planning Board of Aug. 17.

1. Wetlands:

a. Department of Environmental Protection (DEP):

The Town Manager's letter of Aug. 14 to Gleichman & Company, Inc. (Developer) states that the project is not subject to DEP jurisdiction as a wetland because "in order for a wetland to come under the Natural Resource Protection Act as a 'Freshwater Wetlands' it must be 10 acres or more. The site is 8.2 acres." This cannot be right. DEP is not concerned about the project site size, but about the size of the whole area that is wet. That area is clearly more than 10 acres. The project will probably require a DEP permit.

b. U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (Corps):

The Corps also has jurisdiction over wetlands. Technical Services Incorporated (TSI) has informed the Developer that Corps involvement will be required, but the Developer has not authorized TSI to contact the Corps. Most likely the Corps will require a soil delineation study to be performed as part of its review.

Both DEP and the Corps have the power to require drastic changes to the project. The Planning Board should insist that the Developer obtain DEP and Corps sign-offs before any public hearing so that we will know the final design of the project we are discussing.

2. Sewer System:

We understand that the discharge into the sewer system from the project would exceed the limit imposed by DEP for all new development until the sewer upgrade is complete. This seems to mean that there can be no other construction in Bethel for years to come.

3. Tenants:

A booklet prepared for the Governor's Task Force on Affordable Housing describes the rental assistance program to be used by the Developer as providing "low-income tenants with up to $150 a month for five years." If this is true then project tenants must move after five years if they can't pay the unsubsidized rent. This would have a destabilizing influence on the town.

4. Real Estate Taxes:

We understand that the project will pay taxes. However, we do not know how the project will be assessed—based on the cost of construction or rental income.

5. Community Development Block Grant (CDBG).

A letter of Nov. 20, 1989, from the Developer to the Town Manager estimated that the off-site utility costs for the project to be $288,000. This amount is to be paid out of CDBG funds. With the award reduced to $579,960, this means that almost half of the money will go to this project. It is reported in today's paper that the grant is not necessarily tied to the project. There is no need to approve it.

6. Farmer's Home Administration (FmHA).

FmHA funding requires a review of the environment impact of its projects. Given what we know of the drainage and the wetlands issues, how did the project pass this review? We would like to see a copy of the documents prepared for the review process by the Developer.

It is important that the information requested in this list and the answers to questions 9 and 14 in the Town Manager's letter of Aug. 14 to the Developer be available in the town office the Tuesday of the week before the public hearing to allow time for review by the public.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Sudbury Canada Days 1990 was once again a success despite the rain on Saturday, Aug. 11.

This year's heritage festival began with a reception on Friday afternoon, Aug. 10, to officially announce the Bethel Historical Society's pictorial history of Bethel project as part of the town's Maine Street '90 observance.

Saturday proved to be rainy, but the heavy rains did not seem to dampen the enthusiasm of participants and visitors alike. The children's parade under the supervision of Celina Couture kicked events off, followed by children's games headed by Althea Stevens.

The flower show chaired by Barbara H. Brown and Gertrude Hutchins was as always, a success. Providing bouquets besides Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Hutchins were Helen Morton, Margaret Joy Tibbetts, Ruth Cox, Susan Kettinger, Sudie Vachon, Carole Duplessis, Geraldine Howe, Amy Davis, Phyllis Dock, Joy Yarnell, Elizabeth Mason Carter, Barbara Douglass and Shirley Clough.

A wide variety of crafts people organized by Lorrie Hoeh were featured as well, including Barbara Brown, dried flowers; Robin Fraser, stained glass; Agnes Haines, basket-making; Cindy Hoeh, rug hooking; Mike Murphy, bird carving; Deborah Moulton, weaving; Jan Todd, spinning; Hildy Forsyth, spinning; Laurie Hoeh, spinning; Eva Paulsen, spinning; Hans Paulsen, chair caning; Cindy Adams, calligraphy; Alden Kennett, cider making; Bob and Jane Grover, bird carving.

The horseshoe tournament was won by Harold Bailey of Hopkinton, R.I., followed by Pete Nason of Albany in second place and Ed O'Brien of Weymouth, Mass. in third spot.

As always the log drivers bean supper was a sellout and the old time variety show was a popular success.

Historical videos, the farming-logging exhibit and the art show continued on Sunday following the old time church service at the Congregational Church.

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the 25th annual meeting of the Bethel Historical Society will be held on Thursday, Sept. 6, beginning at 7:30 p.m. A 6:30 p.m. potluck supper will precede the meeting. Anyone attending the supper is requested to bring a hot dish, salad or dessert.

Sunday River Inn, Bethel Historical Society to sponsor Elderhostel program in September

This fall will begin a new era in the history of Elderhostel programming at Sunday River Inn as the inn joins forces with Bethel Historical Society.

Steve and Peggy Wight, owners and managers of Sunday River Inn, began offering educational opportunities to active seniors in 1983 as an authorized campus of the international organization known as Elderhostel.

At the time the inn was the only commercial establishment in the Elderhostel system, a variance from the traditional college or secondary school locations.

Over the years more retreat centers, environmental education centers and lodges joined Elderhostel, providing a variety of programming and living experiences not found in the more traditional settings.

Recently the governing board of Elderhostel found it necessary to tighten guidelines on campuses to insure that educational program quality was not jeopardized. Non-traditional sites were asked to affiliate with recognized non-profit organization with clear educational missions.

Dr. Stan Howe of Bethel Historical Society and Steve Wight of Sunday River Inn developed an agreement giving the Society oversight over the programs offered at the inn.

Elderhostel administrators accepted the agreement and now use it as a model for similar partnerships throughout the nation.

The courses being offered in September at Sunday River Inn have a few openings available for local participants. The only requirements are that a participant be 60 years old or over and have a desire to learn and socialize in the company of other active "people of experience." For information on joining the fun call Sunday River Inn, 824-2410.

APPALACHIAN HIKER Darlene Watson of Dayton Ohio stopped for three days of rest and recuperation last Friday through Sunday at the Holidae House in Bethel. Watson, carrying a 40 pound pack, hiked 800 miles of the trail last year, up from Stone Mountain, Ga. The mother of 10 children said a slight back injury brought her off the trail at Newry. But on Monday she accepted a ride to Stratton where she had arranged to meet one of the children, who plans to accompany her on the trail from Monson to Mt. Katahdin. Watson said she will then return to the trail at Stratton and hike back to Newry to complete the leg of the hike she bypassed in order to meet her son on time. She said she expects to be back in Newry in five weeks, completing her hike of the Appalachian Trail.

Federal tax amnesty for Mainers starts Nov. 1

1990 will be the year of federal tax amnesty for the State of Maine. This is a program that allows taxpayers to take care of delinquent income tax accounts while avoiding civil and criminal penalties.

A taxpayer who is eligible for amnesty may pay the entire liability and one half the accrued interest, and the state will waive the remaining interest and all civil and criminal penalties.

Amounts paid under amnesty are final: There is no right to appeal.

To encourage taxpayers to take advantage of amnesty, the legislature has expanded the bureau's powers to collect delinquent taxes. A tough new levy law will enable the enforcement division to levy on tangibles as well as intangible property.

Tax amnesty begins Nov. 1 and runs through Dec. 31. The federal income tax enforcement division will have amnesty applications and other information available in September.

WITNESS FOR CHRIST—Mike Gainor from Oklahoma passed through Bethel last Tuesday, headed for Auburn. Gainor said he has been carrying a 12-foot cross and walking the country as a witness for Christ for four years, logging over 9,600 miles. From Auburn, Gainor plans to head for Florida. "I have faith in the Lord. He makes my way for me," he said.

NTL concludes summer 1990 workshop season

The busy nine-week multiple-program season of NTL Institute workshops in human resource development came to a close on Aug. 19, when the last of four concurrent workshops ended.

The popular Sunrise Seminars, offered five days a week for eight weeks and attended by many Bethelities, also came to an end for the year.

An extra workshop was added at the end of the season, making ten weeks of NTL programs in Bethel this past summer. The program, Self-Awareness and Being, was held at the NTL Conference House and closed last Saturday.

NTL activities will continue in Bethel over the next few weeks. During the Labor Day weekend the NTL Conference House will be the meeting site of the third annual Student Leadership Workshop, jointly sponsored by Telstar High School and Gould Academy, with faculty drawn from NTL professional members.

Coming up in successive weeks starting Oct. 6, 13 and 20, a total of three week-long NTL programs will be held at the Bethel Inn Conference Center, with participants and staff living at the Bethel Inn and other guest houses and inns in town.

These workshops will range from the well-known Human Interaction Laboratory to an Advanced Human Interaction Conference and another of Process Consultation. Further programs are scheduled to take place at the Bethel Inn Conference Center the spring of 1991.

NTL wishes to thank the merchants and townspeople of Bethel for their cordial reception of more than 1,100 participants and 200 faculty members during the past 10 weeks, during which 40 programs were held and participants came from most states of the United States and more than 30 other countries.

Another busy NTL summer season is planned for 1991, when two workshops will start on June 17.

Angevine hosts SWOAM gathering

By DOROTHY DUDDY

Ernest and Alberta Angevine of Northwest Bethel were host to over 100 members of the Small Woodland Owners Association Aug. 18 at their 196-acre tree farm in Bethel.

Speaking before the SWOAM members at the gathering, Ernest Angevine pointed out his wife who stood back in the crowd, and, his voice halting, noted they have been partners for 49 years.

Angevine said he had bought the home place in 1946, a parcel of 75 acres, with the farmhouse across the road. This land had been severely cut over. In 1967, he said, he bought 60 acres due west of them which needed very little work other than some pruning.

He said he had been tree farming since 1955 and in 1973 and 1974 he began negotiating for the purchase of another 200 acres, 120 acres of which he would eventually put into tree farming.

Angevine said he knew he had to have a long range plan to insure that the tree farm would work effectively for his family in the years to come and at that point he hired a forester Brian Mulligan to set up a comprehensive long range plan.

Mulligan developed a plan that he is quite proud of and when he is in the Bethel area he likes to show people the "Angevine Pines."

Presently the State of Maine says that anyone who has a tree Farm must have a plan submitted and approved by the State.

Existing tree farmers have 10 years to come up with a plan and submit it to the state.

Along with tree farms, clearcutting now also has to have a definite plan approved by the state. All restrictions and plans are developed to insure that Maine reaps the most from her natural resource, while at the same time protecting it and insuring the future of our forest for generations to come.

would be better if the Bethel Town Manager lived in Bethel.

Wing said he thought it might depend on where the candidate is recruited from. He said if the person comes from the New York area, where houses are substantially higher priced than they are in Bethel, affording a house here shouldn't be a problem.

However, he said, if the successful candidate comes from some place like the midwest where house prices are about half what they are in Bethel, the selectmen might want to waive the residency requirement.

Wing said he would return to Bethel on Oct. 2 to review candidates' resumes with the selectmen and that interviews will be conducted on Oct. 10 and 11.

Coalition to oppose Sunday store openings

A broad-based coalition of civic organizations, small businesspeople, employees and labor and religious groups called "Save our Sundays" has been formed to lead the opposition to the Sunday sales referendum.

The campaign Treasurer, Robert H. Reny, Sr., says, "Defeating this referendum is going to take a great deal of work and energy but we have developed a winning team and believe that Maine people will agree that Sundays should be for families."

The campaign's manager is former state legislator Carol M. Allen.

Allen, a mother and full-time law student, is opposed to the Sunday sales referendum.

The thrust of the campaign will be efforts to convince Maine voters that Sunday sales will make Sunday less of a family day, put hardships on those who would have to work, and serve the interests of large stores which just want another commercial opportunity.

The new organization will begin a major fund-raising effort and initiate a media campaign in September.

subdivision lots.

Bolduc must refile a corrected plan declaring the presence of two camps, paying penalties for the two camp lots, according to Hebert. If the sold lots were sold last year, they are grandfathered in tree growth; if sold this year, refiling is necessary.

Also, according to Schachter, town maps which do not accurately portray Bolduc's property as a subdivision, must be corrected.

Once the camp lots are removed from the tree growth, the rest of the lots are considered separate entities, she said. If they are over 10 acres they can stay in tree growth; if under 10 acres, they must be removed.

Under Maine Tree Growth law, "classified forest land no longer used primarily for the growth of trees to be harvested for commercial use shall be reported by the landowner to the assessor. If the landowner fails to report such change, and the assessor determine that classified forest land no longer qualifies as forest land, he shall withdraw the land so classified. If the owner(s) fails to report a change in use, an additional penalty of 25 percent of the required penalty shall be assessed. This additional penalty may be waived for cause."

Also the law requires "parcels of less than 10 forested acres resulting from the sale of classified land shall be withdrawn from classification. The penalty resulting from such sale is to be assessed against the new owner of the resulting parcel."

In other matters, Andover Town Officers will meet with the selectmen on Sept. 11 prior to the beginning of Budget Committee meetings in order to discuss the 1991 budget.

At the next planning board meeting, Emerson said he plans to notify the members that when the Planning Board intends to impose town regulations which exceed state regulations, they can not do so arbitrarily, but must first seek an updated town ordinance, to be voted on by residents.

At their meeting, planning board members had discussed asking the selectmen to allow code enforcement officer Kenny Hill to work more than 10 hours a week to become familiar with state regulations. (See related story) The selectmen disagreed, saying that keeping up with state regulations is something Hill should do on his own time as a requirement for the position.

Also, the selectmen will ask the Maine Municipal Association about steps the town can take to stop destruction of East B Hill by logging trucks. Two trucking companies, Currier and James River have already been contacted by the selectmen.

The selectmen approved Steve Swasey's completion of the second phase of reconstruction of South Arm Road. The Department of Transportation will be asked to install a flashing yellow light at the entrance of this road where visibilty of oncoming traffic is poor.

Selectmen Mills will contact Gary Casey of Rumford and ask Casey to attend a future selectman meeting. Casey has proposed he haul away dump material at a cost to the town of $1,500. Casey first would have to provide a certificate of insurance, and notify the selectmen of the destination of the material before a decision is made.

The selectmen approved payment to Steve Swasey of $9,100 for his reconstruction work on the first part of South Arm, plus $600 for clearing of the second portion. Also approved was payment to town counsel Curtis Webber of $3,230 for services from April 13 to June 20, plus $409.70 for expenses. Webber is still handling the MCI tax assessment appeal which is in Kennebec County Superior Court.

Painting of the Town Hall by Wayne Cummings is due to start by the end of the month.

waste water system on the camp application, to which Fleury strongly objected, claiming he will have no waste water on the property, and a chemical toilet. He had previously told the board that obtaining such a design at a cost of approximately $200 would be a financial hardship.

Plumbing inspector Bill Thorpe had advocated the waste water disposal design to avoid further problems.

"If he (Fleury) is going to call it a camp," Witt said, "the board should insist on a design for a sub-surface waste disposal system. We can't be out there every day seeing if it has a sink or other plumbing. We don't have any way of issuing an occupancy permit, and what if he should sometime sell it to somebody and they moved in and lived there under unsanitary conditions?"

The board conditionally approved Fleury's application for a shed, requiring that he write a letter to the board outlining specific uses for the building.

Fleury had stated he would use the building for tent storage and to sleep in occasionally.

Other building permits approved at the meeting were for Phil Milligan to build a house; to Arthur Myshrall to build a shed; and to Paul Laramee to dig a foundation.

Oxford County raid destroys 100 marijuana plants

SOUTH PARIS—Area, state and federal law enforcement officers took to the skies and rural Oxford County roadways Monday, spotting and pulling up 100 marijuana plants.

The raid, by the Oxford County Sheriff's Department, Bethel, Oxford and Mechanic Falls police, the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency, and the Maine Bureau of Intergovernment Drug Enforcement Monday yielded $100,000 in marijuana, according to Oxford County Sheriff's Department Chief Deputy Bert Averill.

The sweep was a culmination of a three-month investigation involving those agencies and was aided by information offered by private citizens, Oxford County Sheriff's Detective Capt. James Miclon said late Monday.

As the investigation became more complete last week, Miclon and Bethel Police Chief Brian Stowell met with helicopter pilots and planned Monday's marijuana search and destruction.

Police will consider charges against individuals growing the large plants in the future, Miclon said.

Local police and deputies involved were Lt. Michael Clark of the Oxford Police Department, Stowell, Miclon, Oxford County Sheriff's Deputy Corporal Richard Berry, deputies Jon Tibbetts and Rickie Osgood, Androscoggin County Deputy Eric Parker, Mechanic Falls Police Sgt. Jeff Goss, Bethel Police Officer Dale Bellman, Bethel Reserve Police Office April Crowley, and Averill.

James River to sell plants in N.H.

JAY—James River Corp. announced a major restructuring Aug. 16 that will result in a new owner for its local Otis Mill as well as the sale of plants in Berlin, Gorham and Groveton, N.H., that employ more than 1,200 people.

The restructuring includes the sale or shutdown of $1.3 billion in specialty operations that were unprofitable, according to a statement released by company spokesmen from headquarters in Richmond, Va. The plan was unveiled at an annual stockholders' meeting there.

The plan, which is expected to be substantially complete within one year, will not affect employees at the Otis Specialty Paper Division in Jay, according to Mike Luciano, the mill's manager of human resources. But Otis will have a new owner—Specialty Group Inc.—in which James River will retain 20 percent interest.

The mill, which employs 308 people, manufactures such coated products as carbonless papers and electrographic sheets, as well as pressure-sensitive goods, such as the waxy backing papers commonly found on adhesive labels.

The company said that the streamlining will enable James River to concentrate on "core areas" in four narrowly-defined markets, namely towel and tissue, Dixie food-service products, food and consumer packaging and communications papers.

"This new direction will increase the resources available for strategic expansion and allow the company to simplify its structure so that is can concentrate on global growth opportunities in those James River businesses in which it commands a substantial market share, which are less cyclical, and which have the highest potential to provide James River with competitive advantage," the company said.

Rumford tax rate, population down

RUMFORD—Both the town's tax rate and population are down, according to information at the Rumford selectmen meeting Aug. 23.

The tax rate is decreasing by $3 per thousand property value (3 mills) to 19 mills, due in a large part to increased valuation of Boise Cascade paper mill, according to town manager John Madigan.

The cogeneration project at the mill has added about $65 million to its valuation, and the total town valuation is $519,160,141, said Madigan.

The total to be raised by taxation is $9,864,042.68. The budget includes $314,922 in county tax; $4,627,423 in educational assessment; $5,721,934 in municipal appropriation; $300,000 in permanent road fund; and $467,022 in overlay. The total municipal budget before revenues is $11,431,302.

The population is down 1,198 to 7,052 compared to the 1980 census according to "partial and preliminary" figures from the 1990 Post Census Local Review.

There are plenty of houses available in the town, according to census results. Housing units total 3,308 with 362 vacant units, according to the preliminary census results. A letter from the Bureau of Census said that the figures are likely to change when the continuing field and processing activities are completed.

Telstar Athletic Boosters seek help

The Telstar Athletic Boosters are now starting the re-organization process for SAD #44 for the year 1990-91.

The goal of the Athletic Boosters is to support all athletic events at the Telstar complex, to improve the morale of the athletes and students at all levels, strengthen the relationship between coaches, students and parents, and develop a way for the parents to get more involved.

The Boosters are looking for volunteers from each town to be on their Board of Directors.

The role of a director will be to organize and form the foundation of this club to service sports activities in the Middle School and High School.

Please contact Sarah Craig, 824-2777; Cheryl Eliot, days, 824-2117, or nights, 824-3174; or Carroll Higgins at the high school at 824-2136.

The first meeting will be held Thursday, Sept. 6, in the library at Telstar from 7-8 p.m.

Local student returns from summer overseas

When asked "What did you do this summer?" Jennifer Brown will have a lot to tell her friends.

The teenager from Bethel spent her summer in Belgium/France as an exchange student through Youth For Understanding (YFU) International Exchange.

Jennifer's second "home" was with the Thiry-Debecker family. In the United States, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gillies and attended Gould Academy prior to her departure.

"YFU's American Overseas program gives high school students a chance to immerse themselves in another language and culture, which helps them learn and grow in ways they never anticipated," said YFU President William M. Woessner. "The increased confidence and abilities with which students return home is invaluable."

YFU, one of the oldest and largest youth exchange organizations, offers programs in over two dozen countries for a summer, an academic semester, or a year. Students live with host families, attend school, make new friends and have valuable experiences he or she will prize forever.

For more information about YFU's American Overseas Program or about hosting an exchange student, please call 1-800-USA-0200.

Free and reduced-price school meals guidelines

Family size and income guidelines for free and reduced priced meals and for free milk in Maine schools for the 1990-91 school year, as made available from the United States Department of Agriculture, have been announced by Department of Education Commissioner, Eve M. Bither.

This school year, students from families whose yearly income total is equal to or less than the guidelines will be eligible for free or reduced priced meals or free milk for kindergarten students or free milk at schools offering only a milk program.

Applications will be sent home with each Maine school child during the first day of school as part of a letter from the school describing the nutrition programs offered by that school.

Information provided on the application is confidential. A family's application must include the names of all household members and their yearly income by source and they must be signed by an adult. The social security number of the signing adult must be given. A family or a child receiving Food Stamp or AFDC assistance needs only to list their child's name, case number and sign the application omitting the income portion of the application. In certain cases, foster children are eligible for free and reduced priced meals or free milk. For assistance in completing an application for a foster child, the foster parent should contact the school official.

All applications are subject to selection for verification. Applications may be completed and sent to a child's school at any time during the school year. Children of unemployed parents are eligible for free or reduced priced meals or free milk during the period of unemployment. Recipients of Free and Reduced Priced benefits must notify the school official if their income increased over $50 per month.

Parents filing an application with the school will be notified in writing of the outcome of their application for eligibility. If a family is dissatisfied with the decision of the school official, the parent may make a request, either orally or in writing, to the superintendent of schools or the administrator of the private school for a hearing to appeal the decision. There is a written hearing procedure on file in each school that may be reviewed by any interested party. Federal and state rules prevent discrimination because of a child's race, color, national origin, sex, age and physical or mental handicap.

Pharmacy & Your Health
David Preble, Prim's Pharmacy
Take This Medicine "As Needed"
One of the abbreviated instructions written on prescriptions by physicians and other prescribers is p.r.n., from the Latin pro re nata. P.r.n. is loosely translated and typed on the prescription label as "if needed," "when needed," or "as needed." A prescription might read, "take two tablets every four hours p.r.n. pain."
The use of p.r.n. instructions often occurs when there is a specific symptom to be relieved, such as diarrhea, fever, cough, pain, or upset stomach. When the symptom is relieved, the medicine should not be continued.
Many medicines should be taken on a routine basis and, therefore, do not lend themselves to p.r.n. dosing. Sometimes persons who take prescribed medicines for chronic health problems may take their medicines incorrectly on an "as needed" basis. For example, persons who take high blood pressure medicine or ulcer medicine should take medicines as prescribed, not when they think they need it. There is no reliable way for an individual to "feel" that the blood pressure is elevated or that ulcers have healed. For this reason, most medicines for chronic conditions must be taken every day, often for years. Always check the prescription label. If you are not sure about the directions, discuss the situation with your pharmacist.

Newry

By GIL SEELEY

Service at the Newry Community Church was opened by Pastor Rodney Hanscom, Aug. 19, with daughter Nancy at the organ. The message for the day was "God of All," creator of Heaven and Earth. Scriptures: Psalm 19, Romans 10:1-12, and St. Matthew 5: 17-20. Later in the day, around 5 there was a picnic on the grounds with about 30 people participating with music and songs by guests from various local churches. Then they went inside and a short prayer by Pastor Rodney Hanscom started the hymn sing-along and songs by Nancy, ending the day with the hymn, "Til We Meet Again." A great way to end the day.

Heidi and Arlan Littlefield and their children, Jody and Julie, were at my place recently, and Heidi showed me some of the beautiful furniture she and her husband make on order. She finishes them in antique and other kind of styles that the purchasers want. Jody was working on a handglider, I don't know if it will take him off the ground? We will see. His sister was helping him.

The Newry ladies who went bowling at Rumford last week were Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Olive Anderson and Louise Tetley. Betsy was high again on the singles with 103 and 108 on two of them and also high on the triples with a score of over 300, she can keep the "prize." All went to lunch and shopping.

Amid so much war and contest and variety of opinion, you will find one consenting conviction in every land. That there is one God, (the King and Father of all.)

Rev. Donald Grover's message was: "Enoch Pleased God." Hebrew 11:5 and 6; Walking with God indicates movement and progress.

Missionary moments: A letter was read from the Bible League. The monies from Vacation Bible School went to purchase New Testaments for China. We were able to purchase 213. If visitors going into China are caught taking in Bibles they will be sent to jail. Much prayer is needed for the believing in China.

Pastor Grover presented Linda Salway with a gift and certificate of appreciation for all the work and her faithfulness in Sunday school and church. The family moved from the area and will be missed.

Wednesday night prayer meeting, 7:30 p.m.

The Troesters (Al and Eileen) will be here at 9:30 a.m. worship services on Sept. 2. There will be junior church available and refreshments after the service.

The Pastor and Mrs. Grover will be on vacation.

Rally Day will be in September. The date has not been set yet but it will be a "family" day.

We say goodbye to Dustin Douglass but it is not a farewell but "au revoir, a bien tot" which means, "Take care, we'll see you later." Dustin of Pownal has returned to practice with the soccer team at Greeley High of Yarmouth where he attends school. Last year he was the only freshman on the ski team and at Olde Home Days in Andover he tool a first place trophy for arm wrestling.

Dustin has spent the summer at the home of his grandmother, Elsie Douglass, and worked at the Umbagog Campgrounds. With his cousin, Eric Tibbetts, he made improvements on his late father, John Douglass' Backstreet log home, proving his strength was backed by skill and valuable for more than a trophy.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arata of Winthrop spent an overnight with his daughter, Violette Bernier.

Frank and Gert Pooler of Scarboro spent Friday at their camp here. Gert was a victim of a car accident early in the summer and they have not been able to enjoy their new home as they'd planned.

Land has been cleared next door to Solomon Gay in preparation for a new year-round home.

Margaret Mitchell and Tex Fogwell entertained 47 relatives at the sixth annual homecoming Sunday, Aug. 19. The large tent was again very useful in protecting the tables and chairs Saturday night during the downpour. Guests included Tillie Grundy of Sebago Lake, her daughter and son-in-law, Ann and John Rizzo, grandson and wife, John and Diane, and great-grandson, Jonathon, five weeks old from Levittown, Penn.; Mrs. Muriel Fiedler of Venice, Fla., her daughter, Judy Williams, and twin grandsons, Eric and Elliot, Elliot's wife, Melody Ann, and great-granddaughter, Samantha, three months old from Fontana, Calif., Mrs. Fiedlers other daughter, Mrs. Muriel Scott and husband, Carl Scott from Boothbay. Mrs. Scott is excutive director of Senior Spectrum Central Area in Gardiner.

Also sister Ethel and husband Lee Dow from Old Orchard, her children Edmund and Lurenda Presby of Windham; Elaine Presby and Pat Meserve from Gorham, Grandchildren, Nathaniel and Kristine from Old Orchard and James and Angela Presby from Saco; Mrs. Mitchell's daughter, Jacqueline Fedchenco and grandchildren, James and Wendy Trottier, Jack and Robin Fedchenco and Andrea Burnham, great-grandchildren, Jason Trottier, Christine and Sara Trottier, Miranda and Paul Fedchenco from New Hampshire; son-in-law, Richard Donovan, wife Jackie; Mrs. T. Murray Donovan, aged 90, great-granddaugther, Jennifer Donovan and fiance, Mike Williams, Vicki Donovan, grandson, Rick Donovan and Laura Marles; Mrs. Helen Laugten of Limerick and Ben Adams of Lee, N.H., completed a very happy family circle.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowell Cameron are staying at camp a few days.

Another week gone by and before we know it school will be starting with all the children by the road sides waiting for buses. Hope everyone will take care when that happens. Children get rather reckless and get into the road when they shouldn't.

Hope everyone has survived this past week and the heat and humidity that has prevailed. It has done a job on my fibrositis and I've had my misery. Take the heat along with getting over tired from being at the Lecturer's Conference in Farmington and the combination has done me in for a few days. Still feeling the affects but hope it clears up soon.

I left here last Monday morning about 7:45 and went to Bertha Benoit's home to pick her up as she was going with me. We hit road construction along the way but made pretty good time and finally found where to register and got to our dorm and unpacked. I was overwhelmed by the crowd of people there so was rather nervous and the heat that day didn't help any either. However, we got through our rehearsal in the afternoon and put on our Maine state program that night. Each of the New England States put on a program while we were there and all were very good. We went to different workshops and enjoyed them as well as getting lots of information to use as lecturers of the Grange. Parties were held after programs, etc. at night for the different states to get together. It was a fun time and New England was great. Each state had a special color representing them and had name tags, hats and paper shakers or whatever you want to call them, of the same color. Each state tried to outdo the others so all in all we had a great time. We were sorry that a lady fainted but not from the heat but she was diabetic. However, she was all right and that is what counts. We came home on Thursday, tired but having met so many people that I won't be able to remember names but will remember lots of faces. Everyone was so friendly and it was a pleasure to get to meet nice folks. None of them too stuck up to talk to others. That's one of the nice things about Grange, everyone is usually friendly and tries to make you feel at home in their Grange. This has been an experience I won't forget and hope some day it can be repeated somewhere else.

Russell has kept busy in the garden while I was gone and the garden looks like it had been cared for. He also had to do some cooking for himself but he didn't mind and that makes it good. He has kept the beans picked and some of the family have had them to can.

Peggy has been driving Tom to Lewiston when he needed to go to see the eye surgeon. He had his left eye operated on and has had to go for care where it is concerned. It is doing good now and we hope the operation will be great help to him.

I got home in the early afternoon on Thursday from Farmington and had a job to take care of things, getting unpacked, etc. Got a call from my daughter and we talked longer than I should have so it took longer than I had planned to get unpacked. I really wasn't up to doing too much more than that for that day.

Friday morning I went to North Bridgton for an appointment with Dr. Shedd to get some of the kinks put back where they belonged or straightened out. Peggy was driving Bertha Benoit to Portland and Tom had to drive to Lewiston so I got to the doctors and got groceries on the way home.

Oh yes, on Thursday afternoon Peggy was visited by her daughter Myrna and husband Whitey from Auburn.

Friday afternoon, I made cookies and all had been eaten while I was gone and Wynona and the girls, Courtney and Kariann, called in on their way home from the doctors and had supper with Russell and me.

Another of Peggy's daughters, Kaye, and husband Otto Blossey, who are here for awhile from Florida, called on Peggy and stopped in to see Russell and me for a bit. They are staying in their motor home at our brother Bryce Yates home on the Sunday River Road. It is always good to see them when they are up this way.

Saturday afternoon, Peggy and Russell went to South Paris to Grange meeting. Russell had been asked to fill an office as it was men's day. He said not many men there which is too bad.

In the evening, Peggy and Russell went to West Sumner to the dance but I kept the house company.

Sunday was cooler and Tom left for somewhere in the morning. Peggy got ready to go to visit Carl and Lettie Brooks as well as Bertha Benoit at Carl and Lettie's camp on Twitchell Pond. Guess they had a good time even though it was too chilly to go swimming. Some change in the weather, that is for sure.

Lawrence and Grace have been busy splitting wood and getting it ready for winter whenever they can. Winter will be here before we know it.

Talked with Mary Lovejoy last evening and she said that they had had Phil Waterhouse paint their roofs. It had been needing it done for a year or two and they were glad to have it done and a good job too. Said it was so hot the days he painted that the paint sizzled.

Don't forget the Grange dance at West Paris, Sept. 1, and Grangers of Franklin and West Paris, don't forget the installation of officers on Sept. 6 at West Paris Grange. Franklin Grangers bring desserts of what ever you wish, for the supper preceding the installation. Hope everyone will be there with bells on.

Got lots to be done so will say, "Have a good week, one and all and take care."

Esther Davis worked on the Tri-Town supper with all the other helpers Saturday night.

Marta Clements has been entertaining company before her school starts, which is not too far off.

Ellsworth Hathaway is very busy at his mill sawing lumber for many different ones. They have kept him quite busy this summer.

I am a bit behind in the news but I would be amiss if I did not extend our sincerest sympathy to the family of Myra Jordan. She will be greatly missed by all who knew her and somehow the C.B. will never be the same without "Gram" on it. We are all sadder and poorer by her passing.

On a happier note my, or I should say our, daughter, Marcia Smith, along with husband, Jon, and dog, Cocoa, arrived a week ago Thursday in Pensacola, Fla. They had taken off the previous Sunday and stopped overnight in Hartford, Conn;., Harrisonburg, W.Va.; Greenville, S.C.; and Greenville, Ala. From Greenville, Ala., they had only a three hour drive to Pensacola but since their apartment was not going to be ready until Thursday they decided to stop. Marcia said the biggest challenge was a five or six lane highway out of Atlanta, Ga. She said she gasped when she saw it but Jon said confidently that it would be no problem to drive but ten minutes later he said, "You know what? I lied." Anyhow they are safely there, the dog looking brighter since they had acquired a bed, a table and a love seat. Their address is 211 Boone St., Apt. 205F, Pensacola, Fla., 32505. They would be glad to hear from anyone caring to write.

A couple weeks ago I left out Julie Ludlam's name in the list of those being baptized from Praise Assembly of God. My apologies, Julie.

Nancy Fauser of Lynchburg, Va. has been visiting her mother, Betty Hollis, at her camp on South Pond.

It won't be long before our youngsters will be exchanging bathing suits for school clothes and water skis for snow skis. We blinked once and summer was gone.

John Mills returned to work Monday after enjoying a quiet week's vacation.

The Blueberry Festival was a great success. Will try to get a figure to report next time.

One thing I forgot to mention about Marcia's trip was how amused I was to hear the different voices when Marcia, as we requested her to do, called collect to let us know of their day's progress. In Connecticut a very correct voice said "Will you accept a collect call from Marcia Smith?" but I knew she was in the south when a voice said "Ya'll know Marcia Smith? Ya'll pay?"

Last leg of a long journey.

Because Northwestern lakes and rivers are glacier fed there is practically no swimming. Thus it was much more pleasant camping at British Columbia National Park Hot Springs on the Upper Liard River—water in the pools having a temperature ranging from 100 to 120 degrees.

We passed through or by-passed many interesting towns by names like Spring Green; Umatilla; Ritzville; Wallula; Spuzzrum, smallest town in the West; Kitwanja; Smithus; Good Hope; Destruction Bog; Eureka; Moose Jaw; Whitehorse; Prophet River; Grande Prairie; Lloydminster (one half the city lies in Alberta and the other half in Saskatchewan); Hoople; and Hiawatha. One day rode through seven tunnels through the mountains. Yellow Grass and Steamboat were two more odd names. Saskatchewan is the largest producer of lignite coal—strip mining since 1930.

Rode by large fields of sunflowers, rape and wheat—once in awhile a potato field. Off and on some farms would have oil wells pumping.

In Edmonton, Alberta, we visited the West Edmonton Mall—largest in the world—800 stores—a full size hockey rink—a large water park with waves and slides—the whale-life size which children could go inside of.

One night we camped in Raghy, N.D.—the geographical center of North America. Crops are looking good this year after three years of drought. If the "Great White Combine," meaning frosts, don't come too early.

Cawola oil is produced from the rape seeds.

Spent one night in Frankenwitch—an old world Bavarian Village—home of famous Zendhers Restaurant. Drove back into southern Ontario again—through Brantford, the "telephone city," via the Seaway Trail to West Niagara and the United States. Another highlight of the trip—Niagara Falls.

From there Vaughn and Mary went south to Pennsylvania and we came east to Stowe, Vt. and spent two days at the Antique Car Rally, arriving home Sunday afternoon, after lunch at Santa's Village, to "Maine—the way life should be."

Over 12,300 miles, a few showers but no rains.

A family reunion and cookout was held last Saturday evening at the Bean-Turner home in Otisfield. Attending were Mrs. Alice Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Salway, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Adams and Eric of Hanover, Bernie and Kassi Gatchell and Kaitlyn of Auburn, Brandon Salway of Old Orchard Beach and Miss Tara Hutchins, the Beans and Turners.

Sunday, Norma and I attended the 50th wedding anniversary reception for the Paul Nowells at the Cape Neddick Inn.

Monday I drove down to Ethel's and she drove me to Portland for my medical appointment. I came home Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Connolly and family of Little Silver, N.J. are spending this week at the Lincoln home. Katie Connolly has a new job in Manchester, N.H.

Gertrude Harrington of North Berwick and her sister from Attleboro, Mass. were callers on Elmira Doyen one day this week. Weston Flint and Winona Verrill of South Paris were callers there Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Burgess of Greene visited his sister, Mrs. Christine Kimball, Saturday, also Bonnie Pepin of South Portland.

Mrs. Christine Kimball was a dinner guest Monday of the Young's at their cottage in Bryant Pond. The "Youngs" are 92 and 89 years of age. The Johnson's of Gardiner were also guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Sharon and his son John of Lewiston visited Mrs. Elmira Doyen one day.

Elmira and Connie Hindman were in Littleton, N.H., on Friday.

Friday afternoon Norma and I and Kassi and Kaity attended the Telstar-Wayneflete soccer game (a scrimmage) won by Wayneflete.

Christine Kimball is attending the wedding today (Saturday) of her grand-niece in Monmouth.

Greenwood City

The sun was sinking toward the line that marked the horizon. From my lawn I saw the sky making its spectacular shift from brightness to sunless clarity of evening. It sank, a mass of blue, gold and crimson. The pale purple lost bit by bit its spendor of brilliance. Slowly over land and sky twilight fell ever so softly.

As the cool air of night was beginning to settle around me there were many sounds and many things to observe. I listened to the gentle lapping of waves on the pond shore. Beyond me a humming bird, that tiny jewel, darted around after numerous visits to the flowers uttering his little squeak over and over.

A red eyed vireo flipped from branch to branch snapping his bill and carrying on his petulant mew. Evidently his musical warble had been put away for the night.

A song sparrow came to me with an evening meal he had found. He didn't know that earlier in the summer I had watched him come and go to his nest in one of the bushes.

The ducks splashed and played and talked in a language known only to them. One took a sudden scoot, as if propelled by a motor, across to the weeds on the far shore. I was reminded of their first visit in April, when it seemed that they just dropped from heaven to the open water, then, just a small strip between the ice.

In the mellow glow of the moon and the softness of the stars, where a short time ago there was the sparkle of sunlight, now rose wraithlike mists above the water.

The charm of the hills stood dark and mystic in a sunless glass-clear night, sometimes blue, deep purple, or black-black in the moonlight. It was beautiful but I had a feeling of loneliness.

The rising of fish and the stir of insects made little dimples like rain drops on the water.

For a time innumerable echoes filled the valley and the sounds ran up the slopes in magnified resonance.

Finally looking into the shadows I could see only one shape against the horizon. Night had come and with it; and owl hooted a doleful requiem in the darkness.

There was a happy reunion at the Holt's on Sunday. Sally arrived home after eight weeks at a school in Pennsylvania. Her little daughter, Mary, had watched for her all day. She flew like a butterfly when her car drove in.

I went with Rena Curtis on Tuesday to Lewiston to see Dorothy Curtis who is in the CMMC Hospital. On our way back we called on my brother, Ernest, in Poland. Several other members of the family have been to see Dorothy.

Wildman: THE RACE

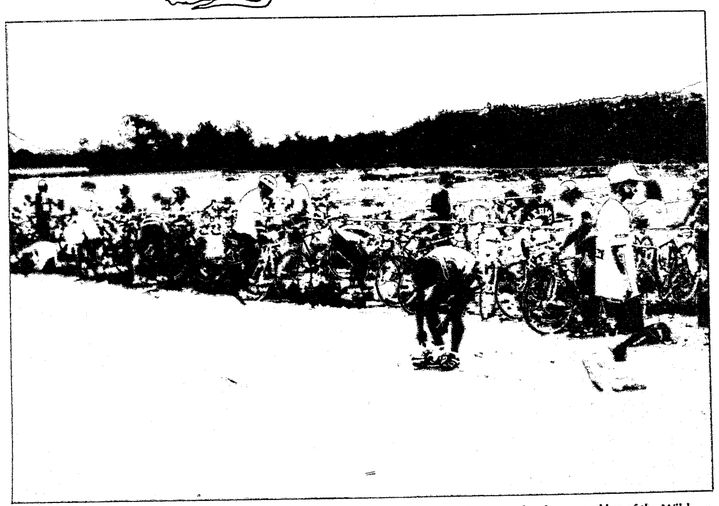
Moriah Sports/Wildcat Mountain last weekend sponsored the Wildman Biathlon, which was scheduled in conjunction with the 125-year old Shelburne, N.H. Festival.

The three-part race began in Shelburne, where the Wildmen and Wildwomen ran 10K on North Road, followed by a 40K bike race along the Androscoggin River Valley into Gorham, then south along the Peabody River, to the top of Pinkham Notch.

The final two miles of the bike leg approaches 10 percent grade. At 1,500 feet elevation, the Wildmen and Wildwomen dismounted for the final 5K run to the finish at the top of Wildcat Mountain. The 5K run follows the Polecat Trail and averages 12 percent grade while some sections exceed 30 point.

The Sheburne Festival, at a more relaxed pace, offered Saturday and Sunday events, including a flea market, chicken barbeque, parade, kiddie games and a baked bean supper and an auction at the Shelburne Town Hall.

AND THEY'RE OFF...



QUICK CHANGE—John Mason of Bethel changes from running shoes to cycling shoes for the second leg of the Wildman Race.

HIT THE SADDLE—Don Best of Bethel mounts his bicycle for leg two.

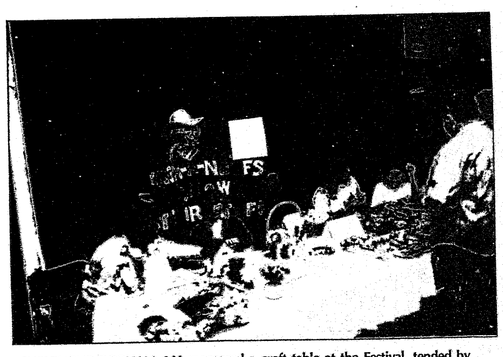
TAMI SNOW CLIMBS the last leg of the race, the first woman uphill in the team of Snow, Nate Mills and Abby Harkins, all from Sunday River Skiway.

SPINNING THE WOOL—Hilda Danforth and Robin Henne of Shelburne sold Shelburne Sheep wool, mittens, yarn, and spun the day away.



SHELBURNE-GORHAM 4-H sponsored a craft table at the Festival, tended by Louise Bevin, 4-H leader, Liz Baker, Darice BeBlois and Mary Bevin, all of Shelburne.

CHICKEN BARBEQUE—Dave Wilson and Bob McLain man the grill for the Winthrop Grange at the Shelburne Festival on Saturday. About 160 chicken dinners were served.

WHO?—It's Bethel's own Brandon "Elvis" Moore, entertaining after the auction last Saturday night at the New England Trappers Weekend. Speaking of auction—the two men in the Coyote Coats, New Jersey residents Tom Dowdal, left, and Newton Sterling, president of Coastal Fur Takers Chapter 14B, model their auction purchases. Earlier in the day Harry Seekins was up to his hip boots in a presentation on mink trapping. (Photos by Jeanne Boelsma)

Mahoosuc Arts brings illusionist Lyn Dillies to Bethel Sept. 4

Have you ever wondered how a magician develops an interest in and talent for magic and illusion? The following is a short biography of Lyn Dillies, a magical artist/illusionist who will be opening the Mahoosuc Arts Council's 1990-91 season by performing in the Bingham auditorium in Bethel on Sept. 14.

Many years ago, a shy girl sat before her television set, mesmerized by a man and his magic. Every week she would study what she saw: the escape, the adventures, the illusion of it all. So intrigued was she by Bill Bixby's portrayal of "The Magician" that she set out to capture a bit of that fantasy for herself.

The girl bought some pocket tricks, practiced a lot, then tried her hand at dazzling her family and friends. They applauded her magical talents, and soon she found herself dreaming of bigger audiences and better illusions.

Thirteen years and countless shows later, Lyn Dillies still captivates audiences. Traveling throughout the east coast, her unique style combines upbeat music and choreography to create a sparkling high energy performance. With the distinction of being one of the few female illusionists in the world, Lyn accompanied by her male assistant amazes audiences in theaters, at colleges and on television.

Lyn has grown from childhood amateur to adult professional, yet her dream remains the same: to share her love of magic with the world. Mikhail Baryshnikov refers to Lyn as "Wonderful" and Mike Naughton, producer of Super Star Magic Circus calls Lyn "The hit of the show."

"The Magic of Lyn" presents a fast-paced, highly professional surprise-filled show for audiences of all ages. For more information please call 824-3575.

Course offered on 'making the world a better place'

A three-session course entitled "What You Can Do to Make the World a Better Place" will be presented by Hertell/Hopkins & Associates at sites in Auburn and Buckfield this fall.

Hertell/Hopkins & Associates, an Auburn management consulting firm specializing in written communications and training, will offer the course in tandem with the adult education program of each town.

The course consists of three separate workshops, each meeting from 6:30-8:30 p.m. All participants registering for the entire series will receive a free "Save the World" Workshop Kit.

Workshop #1, "How You Can Help Protect the Environment" will discuss energy and water conservation; waste and recycling do's and don'ts; and reducing your use of toxic chemicals. Participants will also learn the simple steps anyone can take to make an impact legislatively, as well as ideas on how to lessen the hazards of acid rain and the greenhouse effect.

Workshop #2, "Rethinking the Way We Eat: How Our Food Habits Affect the World" debunks some of the most common myths about world hunger and suggests easy-to-implement ways everyone can help; for example, by eating locally produced foods, and supporting local supermarkets that show a commitment to social and environmental issues.

The final workshop, "How You Can Make An Impact as a Socially Responsible Consumer," will show participants how to get results using the currency that really counts—socially conscious buying habits. These easy hints about responsible investing, consumer boycotts, ethical services and casting a vote with one's wallet will help participants make a difference in how our world uses its resources.

The Auburn series will meet Monday nights, Sept. 17; 24 and Oct. 1 at Edward Little High School (adult education, 784-9220).

In Buckfield the course will meet on Thursday nights, Sept. 13, 20 and 27 at Buckfield High School (adult education, 336-2577).

For more information or to register, please call the appropriate adult education program.

Middle Intervale Meeting House Society Quilt Show

The Middle Intervale Meeting House Society held it's third annual quilt show on Saturday, Aug. 25, at the Meeting House in Middle Intervale.

Over 70 pieces were displayed including very old and recent examples of the craft.

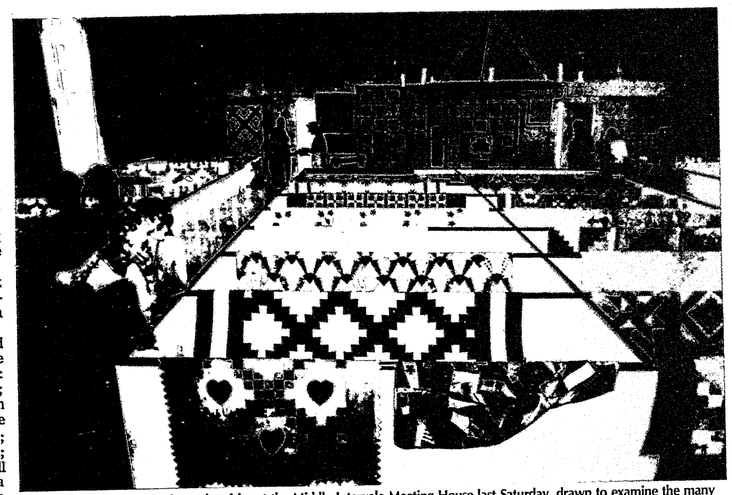
Flowers decorated the Meeting House from the gardens of Geraldine Howe and Phyllis Dock.

A beautiful churn-dash design quilt made by Society members was raffled off in the afternoon and won by Lisa Favreau of Gorham, N.H.

Many people gave much time and effort to ensuring the success of the show and deserve a special thank you: Mary Keniston, Chairperson; Geraldine Howe; Arlene and Don Brown; Louise and Oscar Annis; the Alden Kennett's; Shirley Clough; Arlene Harrington; Ginny Hutchins; Rodney Howe; Phyllis Dock, Lyndell Carter; and Lynn Boschetti. Also, a thank you to Miss Katerine Elizabeth Lea, Bill and Ginny Hutchin's granddaughter, who pulled the winning raffle ticket.

A very special mention needs to go to Virgina Keniston who organized and supervised the quilt-making project last winter. This project realized over $700 for the benefit of the Meeting House Society. Her energy and enthusiam directly relate to the large success of this year's show.

The public is cordially invited to attend another special celebration at the Meeting House on Sept. 9 at 2 p.m. when Rev. Rust Noll will hold Sunday services. The next meeting of the Society will be Monday, Sept. 10, at 7 p.m.



VISITORS moved slowly down the aisles at the Middle Intervale Meeting House last Saturday, drawn to examine the many patterns and details of the over 70 quilts on display at the third annual Middle Intervale Meeting House Quilt Show.

MPBN to air 'Inside Augusta: A Second Look,' on Saturday

On Saturday, Sept. 1 at 9 p.m. the television stations of the Maine Public Broadcasting Network (MPBN) will air "Inside Augusta: A Second Look."

"Inside Augusta," with former speaker of the Maine House of Representatives John Diamond, is MPBN Television's award-winning monthly series that offers viewers a better understanding of the workings of state government and the more controversial aspects of public service.

"Inside Augusta: A Second Look" is a re-broadcast of four programs from the 1989 season. Topics include: "Cost of Garbage," "Smoking, Health and Government," "Politics of Liquor," and "Not Necessarily the News: Politics and the Media."

Diamond said, "This series offers a unique opportunity to get beyond the issues to reveal the dynamics that fuel the government process. This retrospective gives us a chance to update audiences on topics covered last season as we focus on the 'politics of politics.'"

MPBN TV's third season of "Inside Augusta" will begin airing in October. Check newspaper listings and MPBN's Air Date magazine for season premiere.

MPBN Television is: Channel 12 Orono; Channel 26 Bidderford/Portland; Channel 10 Presque Isle; Channel 13 Calais; and on cable TV systems throughout Maine, the Maritimes, and a portion of Quebec.

Fryeburg Fair celebrates 140th anniversary

Billed as "Maine's Blue Ribbon Classic," the Fryeburg Fair will turn 140 years old when the celebration kick-offs on Sept. 30 and continues through Oct. 7.

Featuring everything from a grand parade to a woodsmen's field day, the fair will also hold harness races, a flower show, an ox pull, a shuffleboard tournament, a calf show and sale, sheepdog trials, and even a society pig scramble.

There will be midways for adults and children and nightly entertainment, as well as a senior citizens day on Oct. 2 when everyone 65 and older may enter the fair free of charge.

For additional information and directions to the fairgrounds, call 207-935-3268.

that won't be given until Friday.

Davis said the district has to be careful of infringing on the teacher's academic freedom in the classroom.

"This should eliminate that type of situation," Davis said.

Board member Jane Rolfe of Bethel said she loves athletics but believes that if a student is doing badly, that student knows it before the day report cards come out.

Harrington said, "That's true for most of the students you're talking about. (But) one of the primary purposes of offering this policy is for the one or two or three individuals that end up falling through the cracks."

The board members will vote on the second reading of the proposed policy change at their next meeting, Sept. 10 at 7 p.m. at Andover School.

In other business Monday night, Supt. Craig reported to the board that the district fared "very, very well" on its State of Maine Department of Education school approval update.

Craig said he had received word that the report would be coming out soon and that the district had received many commendations and only a few recommendations. An example of the type of recommendations received is the lack of exit signs at the ends of hallways at some of the schools, Craig said. He noted that many of the recommendations have been taken care of.

Craig also told the board that radon testing at the district's schools had shown levels below the minimum allowable standards.

Prior to discussing new business, board member Merton Brown of Bethel said he thought it should be noted that the recent revival of a proposal to use a breathalyzer test for students thought to be using alcohol at school had received a "no recommendation" vote in policy committee.

Under new business, the board voted to appoint three teachers at the Andover School to share the duties of the principal until a new principal is hired.

Craig said the appointees, teachers John Emery, Joyce Morgan and Mary Richardson will serve temporarily as lead teacher, school/community liason person and Chapter I instructor, respectively.

Craig explained that the search has been reopened for the Andover School principal's job. He said family problems had arisen for the woman who had accepted the job and that they couldn't be resolved before school started.

Finally, board members:

• Accepted the gift of a book, Death and the Classroom, from Meader and Son Funeral Home;

• Appointed John Emery as Andover soccer coach and Wayne Howe as Middle School junior varsity soccer coach;

• Appointed Vickie F. Morgan as parttime Academic Standards Steering Committee secretary;

• Transferred Charlotte Bennett from Telstar High School to Crescent Park School food service;

• Appointed Kelly Walker to Telstar High School food service;

• Appointed Carolyn Johnson as a four-hour per day bus driver for special needs transportation to and from the Western Maine School in Bridgton; and

• Terminated the appointment of Wanda Johnson, "due to her inability to perform the duties of her position as Telstar Middle School instructional aide" and recalled from layoff Mackie Chapman to fill the position. Craig said Johnson had been involved in a car accident last year and that Chapman served as long-term substitute in Johnson's position.

site of Mason Street would be prohibitive, according to the developers.

The town included the housing project to gain points in its CDBG application, according to Town Manager Rodney Lynch.

Nygren said, "Both the DEP (Department of Environmental Protection) and the Army Corps of Engineers have the power to make drastic changes in the project including stopping it."

John Morris of Gleichman & Co. said the Army Corps of Engineers will be inspecting the project site within two weeks to determine if it is a wetland area.

Morris said the planning board could still approve the project's site plan review application, conditional upon the Corps' findings and requirements.

He said if the Corps finds that the area is a wetland, Gleichman & Co. might be required to mitigate, or ease, the impact of the development on the wetland. The mitigation, however, can be compensatory, he said. "The type of detention pond we have designed here (for controlling project drainage) is a very common kind of compensatory mitigation," he said.

Pam Gleichman, also of Gleichman & Co., urged the planning board to avoid "mixing apples and oranges" and to keep the local site plan review separate from questions to be determined by the Corps.

At the end of the allotted 15 minutes, Bethel resident Wendy Ford asked if she could ask just "one important question."

Board Chairman Dennis Doyon said, "No, I have to cut it off somewhere. I'm sorry."

Planning board member Reggie Brown asked "Can we get this all in one public hearing... I'd like to have the public hearing and get this all out in the open."

Doyon said, "I think everybody would like to air their questions and be answered."

Planning assistant Rockie Graham said, "We could have more than one public hearing if everything couldn't get done in one night."

The Sept. 6 public hearing will be held at 7 p.m. at Telstar.

Beginning school: Coping with separation

Separating can be an emotional time for both you and your child when he or she begins school. You will both experience many different emotions, and your child will often be caught between his or her need to be close to you and growing independence. Here are some strategies that may help the process go more smoothly:

Do something special together the night before. If you child takes his lunch to school, fix it together the night before. Together you can pick out what he would like to wear the next day, and he might like to help you select what you are going to wear as well.

Try to have a special morning ritual. Take time to do something special together. Even sitting down to a quick breakfast together can help get the day off to a good start. If you have time, plan and fix breakfast together.

Decide on a special "friend" or object to take to school. Ask your child is she would like to take a favorite stuffed animal, toy, hat, etc. with her.

On the way to school discuss what each of you will be doing that day. After your child has adjusted to school and knows you will be leaving, take time to talk about what you will be doing after you leave his program.

Let your child see that you and her teachers are building a relationship. Greet your child's teacher warmly, stay and talk just a bit, and bring your child into the conversation. "Ms. Jones, guess what Marcia and I fixed for breakfast this morning—pancakes with raisin faces. Have you ever had them?"

Take time to say good-bye. It may be tempting to leave while your child is involved in an activity and might not notice your leaving, but this doesn't promote trust in the long run. Clear, direct good-byes build trust. Over time, good-byes can strengthen children's beliefs that you will come back. You might ask your child, "How should we say good-bye? Do you want to give me two hugs? Can we rub noses?" This way your child has a choice about what you will do, and together you can build you own good-bye rituals. Be sure to leave your child with an image of what you will do together at the end of the day.

You may also reinforce your ties with your child while he or she is at school. Let him take something to school with him that belongs to you, such as a scarf or tie, a notebook, or perhaps a meaningful knick-knack. It may also be helpful to let your child pick a favorite family photograph that he can take to school with him. If possible, when the separation seems to be especially difficult, you may wish to leave the telephone number of where you will be so that your child can make a brief call to you during the day.

THOUGHTS FROM THE

Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

With the coming of Labor Day, there is an atmosphere of expectation and anxiety in many homes. It is a time of change as well as a time of returning. We return to our homes, or to school, or settle into jobs, or prepare for the change of the seasons. We return to committees and the volunteer organizations we support as part of our communities. It is a time of returning.

I have heard a few people talking about the current condition of the world as a sign of the Lord's return. I have heard the same thing said each time there has been a crisis in the world and I understand the reason that these people would hold out the Scriptures that speak of the Lord's return.

As Christians, we understand that the Lord will return (Matt. 26:64). Maybe we will see Jesus in the clouds but we will certainly see him at our death. We all have only one short life time before we meet with the Lord.

Although the situation in the world seems uncertain now, our responsibility as people of faith is the same. We are to live our lives according to the will of God not out of fear for God but out of reverent love for God. The believer does not sit back and neglect the responsibility to live the faith saying that the situation is hopeless, that the end is near and we are to just watch it happen.

No, a person of faith is a person of hope. A person of faith lives out the responsibility of showing God our love for God by the way we live. A person of faith is a person of hope and as long as there is hope there is possibility.

We are to live in hope. During this time of returning, perhaps it is also time to return to a deeper faith life. Time to pray and spend moments with God and others of faith. If we find it difficult to pray, then we can pray for help with prayer. Prayer is food for faith and faith the well spring of hope.

In the face of the current situation in our world, many will ask what it is that we can do. Of the things that can be done, three things can be practiced by everyone no matter how old or young.

One, we can continue and strengthen our lives as God-centered people. Living as people of faith.

Two, we can pray. So few people pray. Certainly there are those of us who say they will pray about something and then we do not. It is sort of like telling God that we will call later and then never make the call.

And three, we could become better stewards, caretakers, of what we have. Disciplining our greed means using what we need and helping others in need. We can do without a lot of the extra miles that we drive if we can share the ride with a neighbor. We can share our resources with each other, our food and our clothing. We can do little things that may seem simple but many of the great saints and prophets just did simple things that changed the world of their time.

It is time of returning. There are feelings of expectation and anxiety especially in the face of what is happening in our world. But as people of faith, we live in hope, taking on the responsibility of living every day according to the will of God.

Yes, we will see our Lord if not in the clouds, certainly we will see him when this life is over. So, we live according to the will of God because of the love of God which is our hope.
